ACCOUNTABILITY WITHOUT THE INTRUSION

ACCOUNTABILITY

"Internet accountability" is the willingness to accept responsibility or to account for one's actions on the Internet. Accountability software monitors Internet use on a computer, generates reports of Internet use, then sends (by email) report to a third party, called an 'accountability partner'. Indeed, a very powerful deterrent.

YISHMOREINI

As with other Accountability Software programs, YishmorEini is designed to introduce a level of accountability in our everyday use of the Internet. What makes YishmorEini unique are the many safeguards in place protecting your privacy and identity. YishmorEini has created a network of community Rabbanim who serve as the 'accountability partner' for their mispallelim. The Rav assigns each member a unique usernumber. Only the Rav knows the identity of the person behind the usernumber. With YishmorEini, the accountability reports are emailed to a team of reviewers who are not aware of whose report they are reviewing. Only reports with inappropriate material are then forwarded to the specific accountability Rav assigned to that particular usernumber.
